FASCINATING FACTS ABOUT HALLOWEEN

- 🎃 Halloween is always celebrated on 31 October.
- 🎃 Halloween is one of the oldest celebrations in the world, dating back over 2000 years to the time of the Celts who lived in Britain.
- 🎃 It is thought that the colours orange and black became Halloween colours because orange is associated with harvests (Halloween marks the end of harvest) and black is associated with dead.
- 🎃 About 99% of pumpkins sold are used as Jack O' Lanterns at Halloween.
- 🎃 Ringing a bell scares evil spirits away.
- 🎃 If you see a spider on this night, it could be the spirit of a dead loved one who is watching you.
- 🎃 To meet a witch, put your clothes on inside out and walk backwards on Halloween night.

WHAT DO CHILDREN DO ON HALLOWEEN DAY IN ENGLAND?

- 🎃 Jack-o-lanterns: These are hollowed out pumpkins with a face cut into one side. People once carved out beets, potatoes and turnips to use as lanterns on Halloween. Nowadays they carve out pumpkins.
- 🎃 According to an Irish legend, jack-o-lanterns were named for a man named Jack, who couldn't enter heaven because he was a miser.¹ He couldn't enter hell either, because he had played jokes on the devil. So instead, he had to walk the earth with his lantern until Judgment Day.

- 🎃 Fire: In the old days people lit bonfires to scare away evil spirits. They believed that light had power over darkness. In some places they used to jump over the fire to bring good luck. Today people light candles in pumpkin lanterns and then put them outside their homes to frighten away witches and ghosts.

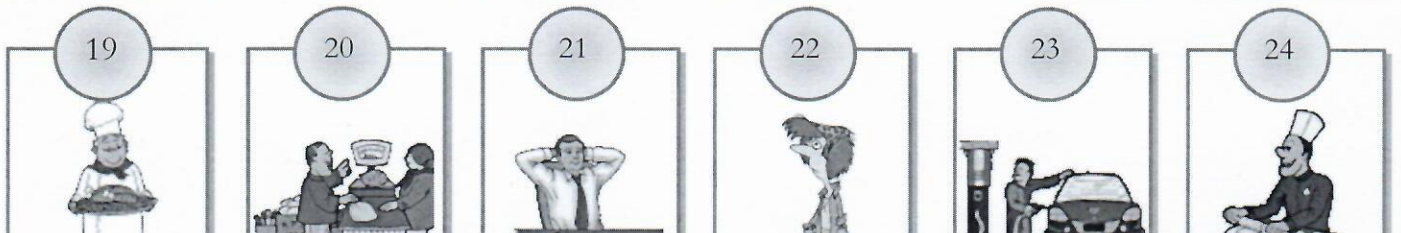

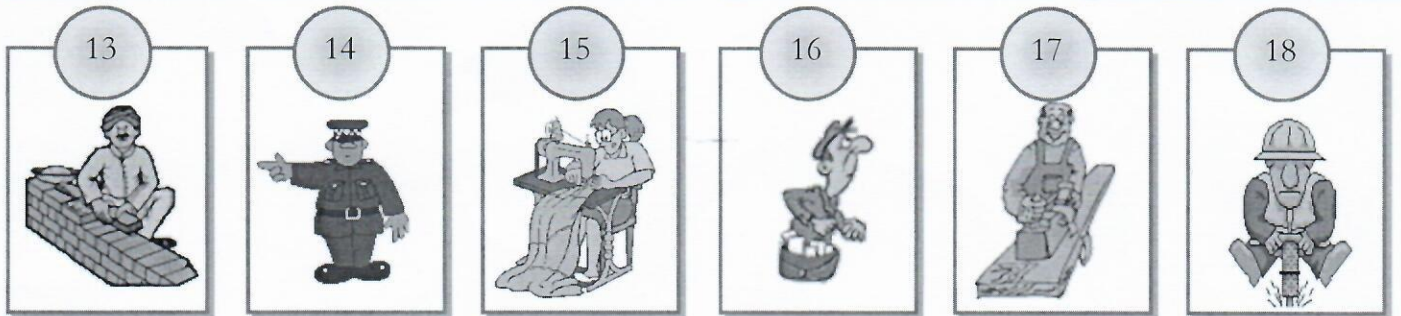

¹ Miser = a person who loves money and hates spending it

- 🎃 Apple bobbing (Duck-apple): Children play the game bobbing for apples, in which apples are placed in a big bowl of water. Children, sometimes blindfolded, must take one bite from one of the apples without using their hands.

- 🎃 Dressing-up: On Halloween, when it was believed that ghosts came back to earthly world, people thought they would meet ghosts if they left their homes. In order not to be recognized by these ghosts, people would wear masks when they left their homes after dark so that the ghosts would mistake them for fellow spirits.

- 🎃 Trick or treat: Children go out in groups and knock on people's doors. They call out "trick or treat!" and the people at the door give each child a treat, usually a sweet.

Puzzle Story 1

James Blonde in ... 'The brown Italian bag'

This is James Blonde and this is Miss Money-Honey. They're British and they're from London. James is very clever and Miss Money-Honey is his friend.

Miss Money-Honey: Look, James! What's that?

James: What, Miss Money-Honey? What?

Miss Money-Honey: Over there. Is it a bag?

James: Yes, Miss Money-Honey, it is. It's a brown Italian bag.

Miss Money-Honey: And who are they, James?

James: I don't know, Miss Money-Honey. It's a man and a woman. And they're not very friendly.

Miss Money-Honey: Interesting!

James: Yes, very interesting.

This is Clive Moss. He's thirty-eight years old and he's from Canberra in Australia. And this is Jill Marsh. She's forty-two years old and she's from New York in America. And what's in the brown Italian bag? Two books, a mobile phone and money! They are French books, a German mobile phone and British money. But is it his bag or is it her bag? This is a problem for James Blonde and Miss Money-Honey.

Clive: That's my bag!

Jill: No, it isn't. It's my bag, and my mobile phone and my money!

Clive: No, it isn't. It's my money!

James: Good afternoon. My name's Blonde, James Blonde. What's the problem?

Clive: This is my bag, not her bag. And it's my money.

Jill: No, it isn't. It's my bag and my money.

James: Hmm, one bag and two people. Miss Money-Honey, is it his bag or is it her bag?

Miss Money-Honey: I don't know, James. It's a problem.

James Blonde and Miss Money-Honey are very clever but are you? Is it his bag or her bag?

James: What's your name?

Clive: My name's Clive Moss.

James: And what's your name?

Jill: My name's Jill Marsh.

James: Where are you from, Mr Moss?

Clive: I'm from Australia.

James: Where are you from, Mrs Marsh?

Jill: I'm not Mrs Marsh, I'm Miss Marsh. I'm from New York. It's the capital of the USA.

James: And is this your mobile phone, Mr Moss?

Clive: Yes, it is. And those are my books and that's my money.

James: And who is 'SM', Mr Moss?

Clive: 'SM' is my wife, Sue Moss. It's her bag.

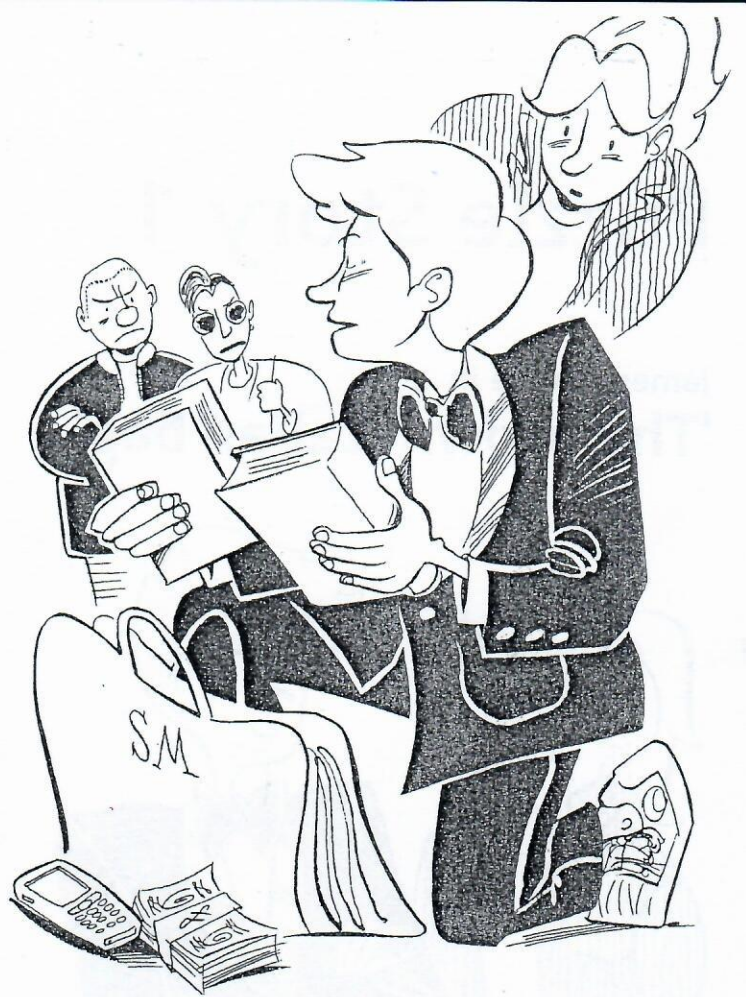

James: And are these your books, Miss Marsh?

Jill: Yes, they are. And that's my mobile phone and that's my money.

James: And who is 'SM', Miss Marsh?

Jill: 'SM' is my husband, Simon Marsh.

James: Hmm, very interesting.

1 Read the information and answer the questions.

1 Where are James and Miss Money-Honey from?

They're from London.

2 How old is Clive Moss?

3 Is it 'Mrs Marsh' or 'Miss Marsh'?

4 Where is Clive from and where is Jill from?

5 Who is 'SM'? Complete the sentences.

Clive: 'SM' is my

Jill: 'SM' is my

2 Now solve the puzzle. Whose bag is it?

Is it: a) his bag? b) her bag?

Red rain

There was this little girl who had trouble sleeping, and often had nightmares. She stayed up late to try to avoid them. Most of the time they weren't so scary to an average person, it was just empty black rooms with only her in them. It made her feel quite uneasy and anxious. They were always the same.

One specific night, on Wednesday, she stayed up late as always. It was raining heavily, which made her feel less anxious about the nightmares. While scrolling through her phone for a while, checking if anything new happened on the internet, the rain became more intense. Hoping it wouldn't escalate to a storm, she put her phone down on her night stand and fell asleep.

2:61 a.m.

She woke up with an anxious feeling. Sitting up, she looked around her room with confusion. She wasn't in an empty black room like always. She grabbed her phone. 2:61AM. She stared at the screen trying to process the time. Was she dreaming? Or maybe seeing things? Either way, she turned off her phone and looked at her window. It was red. She got out of bed, put slippers on and went downstairs. She went into her parents' bedroom but no one was there. The house was empty. Even more worried, she went outside to her yard to see what's happening. Opening her back door, she stepped outside and stood in the rain. For some reason, it was dark red. She felt empty in some way, too tired to react. The rain stained her white and grey clothes while making her hair wet. After admiring the rain, she turned around and walked back inside her house, then into her room. She didn't bother to change her clothes or dry her hair and went back to sleep.

She woke up with her alarm going off. Everything seemed normal. Her hair was dry, clothes weren't stained and the window looked normal. She went downstairs to get breakfast. Her parents greeted her while drinking coffee. "Why do you look surprised? Did something happen last night?" Her mother asked. The girl responded with a tired "nothing." And walked away. After eating her breakfast she got dressed and walked to school.

After that dream, she never had a nightmare. Well, at least a nightmare where she wasn't in an empty room. It stuck with her for years. She still doesn't know what happened that night, but she appreciates it.

Everything red reminded her of it, flowers, furniture, clothing and the list goes on. It never came back, but she hopes one day it will.

Bullying

Bullying is considered as a form of violence. Most common with little children and teenagers, bullying is a sort of violence that is based around making fun of someone's appearance, ethnic origin, religion and fashion sense, among other things. It has also got its own sub forms. Some of them are: physical bullying, mental bullying, cyber - bullying, etc.

Physical bullying consists of punching, kicking, spitting or destroying someone's personal things. Mental bullying is made of calling someone names, swearing at them, threatening them, etc. And finally, cyber - bullying. It is sending inappropriate text messages, threatening calls and texts, posting personal information online, taking someone's pictures without his or her consent.

Bullies are mostly intelligent, though some consider them stupid. They are also handsome, and yet in some media, they are depicted as ugly. The bullies are most likely sporty, fashionable and likeable. They pick on the smaller and weaker children. Bullies use violence, because they were either bullied before, or they are trying to assert their dominance in the school.

Victims of bullies are shy, plain, and unfashionable and they don't have many friends. They aren't sporty, thus the inability to protect themselves.

In our school, bullying is not very common as in the United States or in the United Kingdom, though we do have some minor bullies, whom I will not give names of. The examples of bullies I stated before are mostly true for our bullies, too, but some of them are friendly.

Uroš Pajić, 8.C

Bullying

Bullying is unwanted and aggressive abusive behavior among people, especially students. There are many forms of bullying: verbal, mental and physical. With girls, more popular form is verbal or online bullying, while with boys often used form is physical - they usually get into fights.

Victims are usually younger than bullies. They are mostly bullied because of their religion, skin colour, nationality or disabilities, or simply because they are different from others. The victims and the bullies are not the same in any way. The bullies are usually popular and have a lot of friends. They are good - looking and more confident. They are popular with opposite sex, too. The victims' physical characteristics are: hair colour, glasses, overweight, etc. They are new at school or shy and quiet. They prefer to be alone or out of group; simply, they are introverts. They are sometimes scared to tell their teacher about bullying.

In our school, we are trying to be respectful to one another and not bully anyone. There are many arguments, but in our school, we learn about bullying and consequences which can lead to suicide. We also learn about being nice and respectful.

Petra Pintírová, 8.B

Bullying

Bullying is a behaviour of a person who hurts or frightens someone whom he thinks is less important or worth, because of some of victim's physical disabilities or characteristics, for example being black, short, having cancer or wearing glasses. Even mental characteristics can be a reason for bullying, for example being shy, stupid or smart (good grades at school). They usually force their victims to do something that they are too lazy to do, such as homework.

Bullies are usually popular and have a lot of friends. They aren't stupid. In fact, bullies can very often be intelligent, but too lazy to do certain things. They are usually good – looking, athletes and popular with the opposite sex. They are often fashion leaders in a school - they wear fashionable clothes. A lot of bullies have been bullied themselves.

Victims are different colour, religion or sexual orientation. Bullies can find a very little detail that can be a reason for argument, such as wearing glasses or being red haired. The victims can also be new at school, shy and that is a characteristic that leads to bullying.

In our school, physical bullying is not so often, because of great attention of our security guard and some teachers. But, mental bullying is one that can't be easily stopped, because teachers see it only when somebody starts fighting because of it and even the security guard doesn't know that it exists. Students aren't the only ones that are being mentally bullied and the teachers are victims, too, but nobody is trying to stop it.
